Survey of the Mechanical Industry {#sec2dot5-ijerph-14-00996} ----- The mechanical industry is a part of the industrial sector. It includes different types of industries such as machinery industry, electrical and electronic industry, chemical and pharmaceutical industry, mechanical engineering and welding. We used a questionnaire form to survey the mechanical industry. This survey was done before the festival and after the festival. A total of 45 questionnaires were returned. The questions were designed by the authors. They included different aspects such as size of the companies, type of the products, type of employment, occupation of the staff, satisfaction of the visitors, importance of this event, etc. 3. Results {#sec3-ijerph-14-00996} ===== The aim of this study is to investigate the effects of CSR on the manufacturer's performance. We also aim to investigate the effects of the festival on the local economy. We first analyzed the effect of the festival on the CSR indicators. The questionnaire was distributed in advance. We used the following two indicators for the measurement of CSR. (1) The Firms' Socio-Economic Profile In 2011, the total number of firms in the Changsha manufacturing industry was 27,100. This number was decreased to 22,900 in 2013. The numbers of small, medium, large and very large-sized firms were 10,543, 8371, 6400, and 1702, respectively. The total number of manufacturing companies was 10,003. The percentages of the firms in terms of the number of manufacturing companies were 28.9%, 24.1%, 20.3%, and 18.7% in 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014, respectively. The total number of CSR enterprises was 556 in 2011. It decreased to 507 in 2013. The percentage of CSR companies was 17.1% in 2011, increased to 18.9% in 2012 82157476af
